Not According to the Facts

The Democratic platform gravely declares in the first resolution that "the Democracy for more than half a century, has carried our country safely and prosperously, under all circumstances, and in all emergencies." We do not propose to fight old battles with a party which is virtually disbanded, but if the truth were stated, it would appear that the country, by its own energy and enterprise, has achieved safety and prosperity, in spite of the mischievous influence and purely partisan schemes of the Democratic party. Taking the words of the resolution, however, are they true? Did not the present rebellion begin during a Democratic administration? The war is the legacy of James Buchanan to the Republican party and the people of the United States. By his infamous action while President, he managed to sow the seeds of rebellion, and when the harvest ripened, he had neither the courage or patriotism to save the country from its effects. Perhaps he did not desire to do so. We will not say of an old man, now in his political grave, and just going to that which awaits mortality, that in revenge for his defeat in pet measures, and to gratify his Southern friends, he devised and encouraged Secession, but we have no doubt that he well knew what was intended by the infernal traitors who were in his Cabinet—fit ministers of a base despot—we are sure as every intelligent man must be, that it was in his power to check and to quell the rising storm but he made no exertion to do so—on the contrary, he virtually encouraged secession by declaring that he could find no authority in the Constitution, justifying him in the adoption of measures for the salvation of the Union and so the bold preparations for open war went on. States seceded. Rebels and traitors left their seats in Congress, fearlessly denouncing the Government, and daring the Executive to arrest them in their lawless course. Yet this was the Democratic Administration! This was the work of a party, which it is wickedly pretended "has carried the country safely and prosperously, under all circumstances and in all emergencies!" How false the statement—if the truth was told, it would be said, as history will yet be obliged to declare, that the Democratic party proved false to the country, and by its base treason, plunged it into a war, and sought to sacrifice it with all the best interests of humanity, for the sake of slavery.

WHY MR DENLINGER LOST HIS APPOINTMENT.—The Sacramento Union publishes the following letter, which tells its own story. We do not recollect the terms of the article referred to, but we cannot blame a Senator, when he is personally abused, if he shows proper resentment. We have not hesitated to criticise Mr Nesmith's political actions; it is our right so to do, but we are not willing to allow our judgment to follow him beyond reasonable limits. We have no doubt that he has endeavored to do his duty as he understands it, and if gross personal attacks have been made in the manner suggested, we hardly see how he could do less, than withdraw his endorsement of the party making them. The letter is a matter of public interest, and we therefore give it a place in our columns.

WASHINGTON, March 15, 1864.

Henry Denlinger, Jacksonville, Oregon—Sir: In view of some recent occurrences here, personal to yourself, I regard it proper that I should address you. Some time since, at the instance of McBride, you were nominated by the President to the office of Collector of Internal Revenue for the State of Oregon. When your nomination came to the Senate it was, as is usual in such cases, referred to the Committee on Finance. The Chairman of that Committee called upon Harding and myself for an opinion of the propriety of the appointment. We stated that from what we knew of you we believed you should be confirmed, and, in pursuance of our recommendation, you were confirmed—we both voting for you. Three days after you were confirmed, and just as your commission was about to be mailed to you, your paper of the 30th of January was received here, and the attention of Harding and myself was called to an article in the editorial columns headed 'Oregon Senators.' I showed the article to several Senators, and a resolution was passed requesting the President to return the nomination to the Senate, which was done and at the succeeding session I had the article in your paper read at the Secretary's desk, whereupon your confirmation was reconsidered and unanimously rejected by the Senate.

Notwithstanding the long continued and often repeated assaults in your paper, charging Harding and myself with a want of loyalty to the Government, we were not disposed to resent what you may, probably, have been so misled or misinformed as to regard as a just and fair criticism upon our official acts, when however you permitted your assaults to degenerate into a low and scurrilous attack upon my private character I thought that the time had arrived when such charges should be met. The clear and unmistakable import of your article referred to was that I had appeared in the Senate in a state of intoxication and made a disloyal speech. I submitted your criticism upon my fidelity to the Government, as well as upon my personal habits to the decision of the Senators with whom I have been in daily intercourse for more than three years, and who had heard all that I had uttered in the Senate, they repudiate your charges and come to the conclusion, as one of them stated, that "a man who would write and publish so gross, so false, and unfounded a slander, was unfit to hold any position under the Government."

Whilst I regret that the circumstances alluded to have occurred, I am satisfied that candid and unprejudiced men will respect their own character, and the character of others, will sanction my action in the premises.

Taxing the Mines

A bill has been introduced for Congressional action, which provides substantially as follows:

First—All mines and minerals upon the public domains shall be held to be the property of the nation, open to the occupation of all loyal citizens, subject to such regulations restrictions and dues as shall be prescribed by law and sanctioned by local usage not in conflict with the laws and executive regulations made in pursuance thereof.

Second—The miners' laws and regulations of the several mining districts so far as they are not incompatible with United States laws or executive regulations, shall be recognized subject, however, to modification by subsequent legislation. It shall be a personal offense to personate another or a supposed individual under a license or a permit.

Third—The discoverer of any mine, placer or lead shall be entitled to hold the same subject to the usual regulations as to occupancy and improvement, and the discoverer may claim or preempt one additional claim in the same district to the extent and upon the terms allowed to other miners. But all others shall be restricted to one claim each of the same kind until it shall be worked out or abandoned by relinquishment up to the record and any miner may hold one ball, one mill, one bar or river bed, and one quartz claim or lead in the same district, provided each shall be worked in good faith in its proper season within each year, as may be prescribed by the local mining laws of the proper district, or by any law of Congress or executive regulation made in pursuance thereof.

Fourth—A declaratory statement may be filed upon any quartz, copper ore or silver lead to the extent allowed by the local mining laws of the district upon the payment of $5, for the use of the United States, which proceeding shall entitle the claimant to hold such claim for one year, for the purpose of testing its value for a mining location, but at the expiration of the year the right of occupancy to such claim shall cease and be forfeited, unless the claimant shall file proof of occupancy and improvement, and his declaration permanently to work said claim as a mine, and shall pay, for the use of the United States, the sum of $1 per foot for permanent license or permit, which license or permit shall stipulate for the payment of a like sum of $1 per foot annually thereafter, upon failure of which payment for the space of 30 days, all right to such claim shall be forfeited to the United States.

Fifth—The same privilege of preemption upon placer claims or other than quartz or ore leads, shall be granted, but the effect of the declaratory statement shall be limited to 30 days, upon the expiration of which the permanent permit or license shall be taken out upon proof of occupancy, and the payment of $25, to be renewed annually by the payment of a like sum, in default of which forfeiture shall ensue.

Sixth—The product of all mines shall be subject to such monthly, quarterly or annual tax or percentage upon the product as shall be prescribed by law.

Great opposition to any such legislation is made in California, and we presume that the northern mines will feel equal hostility to it. The S. F. Flag says:

"The bill is founded upon a total misconception of the mining interest. The idea, for instance, of confining the discoverer of silver lodes to the possession of but two claims, in one and the same mine, is absurdly preposterous. Why, there are explorers in Humbolt Esmeralda, Reese River and other parts of Nevada Territory, who own in as many as ten, twenty, thirty, forty and fifty several and distinct mines, of which interests they would never consent to be divested, except by actual purchase. Then, look at the oppressive nature of the tax. The declaratory statement of occupancy to a mine is to cost $5, which occupancy is to continue but for one year, at the expiration of that time, after conforming with the prescribed details of the law, a license is to be paid by the miner at the rate of $1 to the foot, annually thereafter, upon failure to pay which, for thirty days, 'all right to such claim is forfeited to the United States.' In return for this heavy tax, no title is vouchsafed, beyond that guaranteed under the local laws of the district in which the mine or mines may happen to be situated.

Gold mining, especially in the placer diggings of California, has become so far an obsolete idea, that any attempt to enforce the collection of a tax, beyond that already imposed under State law upon alien miners, would greatly resemble plucking a toad for feathers, or shearing a pig for wool.

We are pleased to learn that there is but little prospect of this law finding favor in Congress. It is opposed by our entire delegations from the Pacific coast, including California, Nevada, and Oregon. Without their consent it would hardly be thrust upon the country, and certainly, among the number there are those who have had sufficient practical experience as miners to expose the enormities and follies of the bill, and thus secure its rejection."

HARD WORK.—The Review and Democrat both publish the Virginia and Kentucky resolutions, made more than half a century ago as the basis of the nonsense which appears in the Democratic platform. If we not do the people of Oregon have sense and patriotism enough to form their own opinions without going to Virginia or Kentucky or any other State. It is a poor compliment to the intelligence of the State of Oregon, to ask her citizens to adopt the antiquated and absurd notions of Virginia, as enunciated sixty six years ago. We live in an age of progress and are not inclined to allow any dilapidated State now in rebellion to set an example for us.

May the Federal armies be preserved, and the rebel armies pickled.—Pentice.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The whisky question was finally settled in the House today.

Washburn of Illinois moved an amendment to the tax bill taxing stock on hand, which was lost. The rate of taxation was the existing one, viz: fifty cents per gallon for all wheat manufactured from July 1st to January 1st, and after that date one dollar and twenty five cents per gallon. The tax on ale and lager was fixed at one dollar per thirty gallons.

CONGRESS, April 22.—In the Senate yesterday a bill making Portland, Oregon, a port of delivery (entry?) was passed.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The following information was received to night from the Army of the Potomac:

Five deserters of the 48th Virginia rebel regiment came into our lines yesterday. It is positively ascertained that Longstreet's corps is at Orange Court House. Lee's entire force does not more than 30,000 to 50,000 strong.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The Tribune Washington special says Grant has left for the front and Burnside for Fortress Monroe. It is understood that he had received information of developments of the intentions of the rebels to render an early movement of the Army of the Potomac highly probable.

The War Department has ordered an additional 15,000 beds to the present hospital accommodations at Washington.

Reports gain credence that Lee has sent a part of his army into the Shenandoah Valley, with the view to compel Grant to divide his army, by sending a force in pursuit.

The Herald's Washington special says Governors Brough, Morton, Curtin and Yates had an interview with the President to-day and urged the necessity upon him of calling for 200,000 more men into service for the defense of the States bordering the Ohio river, especially Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky. They claim it authorized they could raise that number for that duty by volunteering. The President seems disposed to issue a call for them, the men to be raised only in the Western States.

All the sick of the Army of the Potomac have been sent here and placed in the hospitals.

The Herald's special says Major General Crittenden has been assigned to an important command and ordered to report to Gen. Burnside.

Serious apprehensions are entertained of difficulties with the Sioux Indians during the coming season. Reliable information has been forwarded to St Louis, that there are 1,400 Sioux warriors within 70 miles of Fort Union and 600 more on Powder Creek the Sioux have been joined by the Assiniboines, Crows and Western Sioux. They are preparing an attack on Fort Union, and to destroy the steamers on the Upper Missouri river.

Gen Pope is understood to have ordered a strong force into the Indian country. A bloody campaign is anticipated.

Information received here confirms suspicions of a wide spread conspiracy in the north western part of the state, inaugurating armed resistance to Government. Crawford county, Ohio, the headquarters of a gang of butternuts, had been placed under martial law. Other counties in that state are soon to be put in the same position. Ohio, southern Indiana, and southern Illinois contain the principal portion of these rebels, whose leaders only await a disaster to the National arms to give the signal of revolt.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—The Enquirer has the following: Rebel prisoners who had arrived at Washington state Lee's forces on the Rapidan to be 60,000. Longstreet was at Charlottsville, marching towards Stanton, for the purpose of advancing down the Shenandoah Valley. Lee's army had received seven days rations for a forward movement.

Letters from Norfolk were received giving particulars of the rebel attack on Plymouth, (N C.) and an assault on Fort Gray. The rebels were repulsed with fearful slaughter.

BALTIMORE, April 22.—The American has advices from Norfolk that a steamer had arrived there from Newbern and was taken possession of to bring important dispatches to Gen Butler. The Capt. reported that the rebel ram came down within a few miles of Plymouth (N C.) on the 13th inst. attacked our fleet and sunk the gunboat Bombshell and two other gunboats. The greatest excitement prevails at Plymouth and it was expected our forces would have to evacuate. It is thought that General Peck will be able to hold Newbern.

CAIRO, April 21.—The dispatch boat Gen Lyon, from Red River brings the following regarding affairs in Gen Banks department. The fight on the 8th was at Sabine. The rebels were 35,000 strong. On the morning of the 8th Banks sent forward the cavalry with supply trains, and 100 wagons from Natchitoches. They soon began skirmishing with the enemy, and found them in force at Pleasant Hill. The commander of cavalry, thinking the rebel force small, sent a message to Gen Banks to that effect and asking for reinforcements. Ransom's division was sent forward together with 7 guns which the enemy captured. The enemy took the supply trains, killed and wounded a large number of our men, and took many prisoners. As they approached, Gen Smith's forces, which were in line of battle opened line and let the fleeing troops pass. Before the enemy came up Gen Smith closed his line and drove the enemy back. Next morning Gen Smith attacked the enemy under Darby Smith, Taylor, Magruder, and Holmes, driving them back. The Union forces took a number of prisoners, and killed and wounded more than the rebels did the day before. Banks fell back to Grand Ecore, on account of scarcity of rations, and sent a message to Admiral Porter 150 miles above to return with transports containing supplies. As the boats came down the enemy appeared on the banks of the river, and the stream being narrow—

[Here the line gave out between Red Bluff and Marysville. May be all correct soon.—OREGONIAN.]

WANTS OF THE SOUTH.—We notice in an East Tennessee paper an earnest call for mechanics of every description to settle in that State and supply the pressing wants of that desolated region. The famous Parson Brownlow says:

"We want tin and stove shops with stock to carry on business. We want house carpenters and cabinet-makers with materials to carry on. We want boot and shoe shops. We want tanneries, for we have the bark and hides. We want tailors, blacksmiths, saddlers, harness makers, carriage-makers, and Union mechanics, to take the place of a vile set of rebel hick apittles, who have had their day, and whose proscriptive course and persecution of loyal men forbids that they should ever do business here again. We want school teachers, physicians, and preachers who are loyal to the government of the United States. All such men, and many of them should settle now in this country, and start fair life in a country of fine scenery, productive soil, pure water and a salubrious atmosphere."

We may form some idea of the enormous wants of the whole Southern country from these glimpses of local deficiencies. The supplies through blockade runners, the last three years, have of course been very inadequate, while the enormous destruction and waste have been constantly going on. A new fitting out of every description of articles will be needed for the whole region involved in the rebellion, whenever that rebel outbreak is suppressed, and it is not unlikely that thousands who are now engaged in subduing the rebellion will remain, when that work is done and set up the arts of peaceful industry on the theatre of war.

VICTORIA V I, April 20, 1864.

EDS OF OREGONIAN:

Permit me as a statement has appeared in your paper that I represented the Ale and Porter shipped on the schooner Jenny Jones, was lawful to correct the same.

When the clerk of Messrs Anderson & Co. brought the invoice to my office, I informed him it at the Ale and Porter was not in lawful packages, and refused issuing the usual invoice certificates. During the day Mr Jackson, head clerk of the house called at my office and I repeated the same to him adding that if it was shipped it would not only be liable to seizure but the vessel also. Mr Jackson said that the firm to whom it was consigned knew or ought to know, whether it was in violation of the revenue laws and as they have positive orders to ship the goods presumed they were willing to assume all responsibility. On the same day I also informed the agent who was loading the Jenny Jones, that I was fearful the shipment would make the vessel some trouble. Accordingly he went to see Mr Jackson and explanations similar to those already stated were given. The Ale and Porter, therefore was allowed to remain on board and finally landed in Portland without my having said the shipment was lawful.

I am, sir, your obedient servant,

ALLIN FRANCIS

IODINE WATER.

IODINE WATER IS THE MOST IMPORTANT DISCOVERY of modern chemistry and it is impossible to over estimate its influence as a remedial agent. Iodine has been considered the most useful article in Materia Medica, and many of the most scientific and practical chemists and physicians have investigated its effects upon the human system. It is to act upon the

HEART, LIVER, KIDNEYS, DIGESTIVE ORGANS AND GLANDULAR SYSTEM,

and to have great control over

SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS.

Notwithstanding the zeal and ability with which have been devoted to its investigation it remains almost useless until Dr Manley Anders a physician and chemist of New York after years of patient labor and experiment discovered a chemical process which enabled him to dissolve without alcohol. This combination is only the scientific world is attested by certificates from Dr J R Chilton of this city and Prof Booth U S Mint Philadelphia. The importance of this discovery was so highly appreciated by the faculty that it was published in the Medical Journals and the inventor is to practitioners see "American Medical Monthly July 6 1859 page 6."

PURE IODINE IN PURE WATER

This valuable medicine is now available to the public for the cure of [illegible] in all its multiform [illegible] consumption Cancer, Heart Liver and Kidney Diseases, Rheumatism Neuralgia, Nervous Affections, Dyspepsia, Bronchitis &c.

The following delegates to the County Convention were chosen:

The North Portland Precinct Union Meeting, held at Thompson's Hall, at the same time, chose E Hamilton as Chairman, and E W McGraw and E D Backinstos, Secretaries.

On motion it was resolved that none but those who subscribed to the sentiments of the call of the County Committee should be entitled to vote.

RACE BETWEEN STEAMERS.—The steamboat John H Couch, Capt Holman, has generally distanced the ocean steamers that she has happened to fall "along side" of, in coming from Astoria. On Saturday last the Sierra Nevada came along as the Couch was leaving the Cowlitz river for Portland and a race was immediately struck up. Passengers report it as being rather an exciting contest, the ocean steamer coming out ahead.

OPPOSITION TO ASTORIA.—The Oregon Steam Navigation Company announced yesterday by posters that the steamer Julia would leave Portland this morning at 9 o'clock for Astoria, in an opposition line.

FAST DRIVING.—Marshal Hoyt yesterday afternoon stopped a party of four who were driving furiously down Front street, endangering the lives of pedestrians.

We have known cases where this process has been repeated at least a dozen times, a state of the blood and humor of some kind or other being there the occasion of the carbuncle. The only rational way of treating this disease is to purify the blood, and this can be done in the most natural manner by taking

It was further resolved that voting should be done by ballot; that the polls should remain open one hour, and that a plurality should elect.

D. L. MURDOCK, Purser.

She brought 300 tons of freight for Portland, which was being rapidly discharged yesterday, and the steamer will be ready to sail this [illegible] at 8 o'clock, for Victoria and San [illegible].

PINE GATHERERS.—The "prospecting" for pine trees by pitch gatherers, appears to be quite a business, in these days, and parties are often seen piling up small boat loads of "traps," such as cans, barrels, etc., to work in the business. The trees that yield the best are those which have received a "prick" in the grain, from wind shakes or other causes, and it not unfrequently occurs that when one of this class is tapped pitch will flow forth in a steady stream, yielding ten, or even twenty gallons in a very few minutes. The generality of trees, however, yield but from five to eight gallons. The tapping process is performed with a long auger, 2-inch bore, worked on the principle of a crank.

THE NEW WORLD.—We learn that this fine ocean steamer is expected to be fully prepared for her ocean trip, and to leave San Francisco on Wednesday, the 27th inst., for this city. She will be under the charge of Capt. C. C. Dall, whose long experience on this coast, in the service of the Pacific Mail Steamship Co., thoroughly qualifies him for the duty, and may be expected in Portland on Saturday or Sunday next.

FAST DRIVING.—Marshal Hoyt yesterday afternoon stopped a party of four who were driving furiously down Front street, endangering the lives of pedestrians.

WHAT CHEER.—The old What Cheer House will be abandoned this week, for the new and comfortable quarters just completed and furnished, by the enterprising proprietor. The new hotel has in all 108 rooms; which will accommodate nearly one hundred more persons than at the old place. The ground plan of the building is 75 by 100 feet, three stories high. The office, reading room, one parlor, dining-room, kitchen, etc., occupy the first floor. The second and third contain another parlor, and the usual division of rooms for a hotel, with a large miradar, from which a splendid view of the surrounding scenery may be obtained.

THE FRANKLIN BOOK STORE.—Mr. McCormick can give all his customers their money's worth, and a little more, if they wish to know what is going on in the world, and to see illustrations of the new fashions, or of scenes of the war, made famous by recent events. He has received all the new Magazines, which are full of interesting articles.

MORE INTELLIGENCE.—Charles Barrett received by steamer almost everything, from everywhere, which news dealers ever furnish. He has Harper's Monthly for March and April, Leslie's Family Magazine, Peterson's, and all the newspapers and pictorials, at cheap rates.

WILL LEAVE TO-DAY.—The schooner Monitor will leave to-day in tow of the steamer Julia, intending to load at Oak Point with lumber, when she will proceed to San Francisco, and resume her place in the Victoria packet line.

MUSIC.—Mr. E. G. Randall has received for that matter, he is constantly receiving additions to his desirable stock of music, musical instruments, etc. The best reference we can give of his assortment, is a visit to his store.

ASTORIA, April 23, 1864.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

We were highly entertained last evening by an eloquent and patriotic address at the Court House from His Excellency, Governor Gibbs. The Court House was crowded full and all seemed much pleased.

The dissensions and democratic opposition of the North were portrayed in their true light, as favoring, and holding out encouragement to the rebels to continue on in their rebellious course,—hoping for a change of sentiment at the North.

The speaker was very candid in acknowledging his own complicity, years before, in bolstering up "compromise, Kansas, Nebraska," &c. &c., in the democratic party.

The speech, as in fact all speeches upon the issues of the day must be, was a well devised re-hash of the doctrines of "Helper," the "Abolitionists" and the "New York Tribune" for the last ten years. It is right, proper and EXPEDIENT, that it should be so.

Butternut people—the secesh ers mostly—are so prejudiced even now a-days, that they cannot "see" immortal truth even, or recognize holy writ unless it is printed in the New York Herald or Day Book. But even these papers are said to have turned abolition lately.

SUCCESS.

A REBEL'S REASONS FOR DESERTING.—The Chattanooga Gazette says a rebel deserter lately gave the following reasons for forsaking Jeff Davis' Confederacy:

"I have been in the rebel army for nearly three years, and when I first entered the army the Confederacy was composed of fifteen States, (or at least I was made to believe so.)

Well, at the end of the first year's war we could claim but thirteen States; at the end of the second year's war, but nine; and now we can't claim a single whole State, and we can only claim parts of six States—Alabama, Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, and Virginia!

Thus we have lost more than two-thirds of the original Southern Confederacy.

This is not the sum total of our loss either; for we have lost equally as heavy in men, money and credit, as we have in territory.

Our troubles are increasing every day, for we have lost all the country depended upon to supply our army with rations. When we yielded the Mississippi river, all the fine Texas beef cattle were cut off. This is an unsupportable loss to the Confederacy. Tennessee and Southern Kentucky were our dependance for much of our corn, wheat and bacon, to say nothing of horses for cavalry. This was a great loss.

East Tennessee furnished us with nitre and coal; it, too, is gone! And our armies are now forced back into the poorest parts of the South, where it is impossible to supply either food or raiment for any length of time. This shows that the chance for Southern independence is quite slim, and I saw that it was folly to be fighting always without any hope of gaining the day or even benefitting ourselves. This war would stop right away if it were not for the big men of the South. They know they will be hung if caught, and they will keep up the war just as long as they can."

THE COURSE OF THE FREMONT MEN.—The Baltimore Gazette, in a Washington correspondence, has the following:

"It is understood here that the leaders of the Fremont faction have determined to organize in every election district throughout the North, irrespective of the present Republican organization, with a view to run the Pathfinder as a candidate, whether Mr. Lincoln is nominated by the June Convention or not. They allege as an excuse for this revolutionary party action that the Convention is certain to be controlled by the great shoddy contracting and office-holding interests. They assert that Gen. Simon Cameron is Commander-in-Chief of the Lincoln forces, and that he has arranged the delegations from all the Northern States in favor of Mr. Lincoln's advance; hence they decline to recognize the validity of a made up Convention, and will contest the canvass until the close of the polls. This movement, in connection with Pomeroy's speech, is creating no little excitement in Administration circles."

THE SANITARY FAIR.—The ladies of Corvallis are getting up a Fair to come off at the College on Monday evening, the 2d day of May. The gentlemen of our town are not distinguished for over accomplishing much in a public way, for the reason that each has a particular way of thinking contrary to all the rest, but we have never known the ladies to fail in carrying out in a creditable manner anything they have undertaken; hence we may safely predict that this Sanitary Fair will eclipse anything of the sort yet gotten up in the State. The entertainment will be of a nature to amuse, instruct, and cultivate feelings of sociability and friendship, and the mite contributed by each will go to swell that Fund which has already done so much for suffering humanity. Of course there will be a great crowd in attendance, the ladies are aware of this fact, and will make preparations accordingly.—Corvallis Gazette.

Agency Notice.—Mr. L. P. FISHER is our only authorized Agent in San Francisco to receive advertisements, and transact business for the DAILY and WEEKLY OREGONIAN. Office—No. 171½ Washington street, nearly opposite Maguire's Opera House.

Eastern News.

DESMOINES, Iowa, April 14.—The emigration westward is increasing daily. Feed for stock on the plains is said to be very scarce and difficult to obtain. The season is unusually backward, the grass having hardly made its appearance.

CAIRO, April 19.—A rebel mail carrier, with three hundred letters from Richmond and other points east of the river, was captured on the night of the 4th, three miles below Crockett's Bluff, Arkansas. The letters contained official communications for Shreveport. Sixty thousand percussion caps were also captured with the messenger.

Mobile papers, of the 23d, contains a synopsis of a speech of Vice President Stephens, at Milledgeville, in which he said the bill suspending the habeas corpus act was constitutional but dangerous. He did not believe the President would abuse the powers conferred upon him, but abuse might be expected without his knowledge. If a suspension was necessary, which he did not admit, it was dangerous to freemen, and if not protested against, would be fastened on us as the policy of the Government. The Currency bill he thought unwise and severe, and the Military bill fatal, if executed, as it diminished producers to such an extent, as to interfere with the necessary supply of food.

Refugees from Central Texas represent that a series of fearful outrages had been committed upon persons suspected of Union sentiments. As many as one hundred had been hung and shot by vigilance committees, under sanction of the military authorities. There is much suffering in Texas from the influx of negroes and families. Beef and corn are the sole products of the country, and of these there is not enough to supply the resident population.

On the 7th a party of cavalry with one gun, near Port Hudson, were surrounded by 300 of Wirt Adams's cavalry, and in a skirmish we lost the gun, 12 prisoners and had five wounded. The rebels lost 15 killed.

NEW YORK, April 19.—A Portsmouth, Va., correspondent reports the result of the recent expedition for the purpose of capturing the rebel torpedo boat which attempted to destroy the Minnesota. It was not found, but several sharp skirmishes were had with the rebels. Fifty contrabands and a large number of horses were brought in.

BALTIMORE, April 19.—The inauguration exercises of the Maryland Fair, last night, were very imposing. President Lincoln was present, and in response to repeated calls made a brief address. He referred to the great change which had taken place in Baltimore the last three years. When he alluded to the massacre at Fort Pillow, he said many supposed the Government did not intend to do its duty in regard to the protection of colored soldiers. He desired to say that all such were mistaken. When the question respecting colored men as soldiers was left to the Government, it rested very much with himself whether he made soldiers of them or not. He pondered the matter carefully, and when he became convinced that it was his duty to employ them he did not hesitate. He stood before the American people responsible for the act—responsible before the Christian world—and should stand responsible in the eye of the historian. He declared that the Government would protect them the same as white soldiers, whenever a clear and authenticated case was made out. Hitherto it had been difficult to ascertain with certainty what the Government's decision in a matter so serious should be. But in the Fort Pillow affair he thought we were likely to find a clear case. When Government does know the fact from official sources, and should they substantiate the reports, retribution will be surely given. The President's remarks were warmly applauded, and especially his determination to retaliate for the barbarous deeds of the rebels.

Messrs. Wade and Gooch, of the Committee on the Conduct of the War, have left for Cairo to take evidence relative to the massacre at Fort Pillow.

Foreign News.

NEW YORK, April 15.—The Times' Washington letter says that one of the vessels built at Bordeaux for the Confederates has been launched. An English vessel is lying there with her equipment. The builder has been compelled to give the French Government his word that the vessel he is constructing shall not pass into Confederate hands. The two ironclads will not be ready for launching for months, but the other three wooden vessels will soon follow their consort. The French Government has enclosed the Rappahannock in the dock at Calais, and placed a man of war in front of it.

NEW YORK, April 18.—The steamer Glasgow, from Liverpool, the 3d, and Queenstown the 4th, has arrived.

The London News reports that measures are being taken by the Tory Opposition for mustering their utmost strength for a well organized attack on the Government in Parliament.

Advices from Rome confirm the apprehensions felt for the health of the Pope. His life is not, however, despaired of.

The Paris Pays speaks of a serious conflict said to have taken place in Jutland, between an Austrian and Prussian regiment.

Vienna papers give a positive official denial of the report that a revolt had been planned among the Hungarian troops in the Austrian army, and that in consequence wholesale executions had taken place.

THE CORRECT POSITION.—The news from below is, that Col. Kelly has consented to run on the Copperhead platform. Whatever may be said of the man, independent of his political association, has nothing to do with his present position, and should have no weight at the ballot box. By becoming the tool of Copperheadism he has only the farther to fall and the more shame to bear.—Albany Journal.

Retiring from the Practice of Medicine.
A CARD.
DR. L. J. CZAPKAY begs leave to announce to the public, and particularly to his patrons on the Pacific Coast, that he is about to close his business, with the view of retiring for the present from the arduous labors of his profession.
As it is his intention during the ensuing Fall to leave the United States, for the purpose of visiting Europe, he will not receive any new patients after the first day of July, 1864. Therefore those who may desire his services will apply within a reasonable time. Dr Czapkay desires to assure those who are now under his care, that they will continue to receive all the attention which his obligations prescribe and their cases respectively demand. Those who have contracts guaranteeing a cure are hereby requested to report to Dr. Czapkay before the first day of June, 1864, whether or not they are satisfied that a cure has been effected in their cases respectively. All who do not thus report within the time specified will be regarded and treated as cured.
In taking leave of his patients and the public, Dr. Czapkay desires to express his profound gratitude for the extraordinary patronage bestowed upon him, and the confidence reposed in his professional ability.
During his residence in California Dr. Czapkay has treated successfully upwards of twenty-five thousand patients, which is the best guarantee that the course of treatment has been rewarded with a success at once personally gratifying and almost unprecedented in the annals of medicine.
Any physician in good standing, who may desire to purchase the interest of Dr. Czapkay in his "Institute," and the good will of his business, may make application as stated proposals.
Address Dr. L. J. CZAPKAY, Medical Institute, Sacramento street below Montgomery, opposite Pacific Mail Steamship Company's Office, San Francisco.

England and America—1863.

[The following high-toned and expressive poem is taken from the new volume of poems by Richard Monckton Milnes, lately elevated to the English peerage, under the title of Lord Houghton. His friendship to our country has always been strong and steady:

We only know that in the sultry weather,
Men toiled for us as in the steaming room,
And in our minds we hardly sat together
The bondman's penance and the freeman's loom.

We never thought the jealous gods would store
For us ill deeds of time-forgotten graves,
Nor heeded that the Mayflower one day bore
A freight of pilgrims, and another slaves.

First on the bold upholders of the wrong,
And last on us, the heavy leaden years
Avenge the cruel triumphs of the strong—
Trampled affections and derided tears.

Labor, degraded from her high behests
Cries, "Ye shall know I am the living breath,
And not the curse of man. "We shall have Rest,—
The rest of Famine and the rest of Death."

O, happy distant hours! that shall restore
Honor to work and pleasure to repose,
Hasten your steps, just heard above the war
Of wielding passions and the crash of foes.

Taken Prisoner.

"No rent again this month? This is the third time it has happened within the half year. I'll go there myself, and get the money, or I'll know the reason why!"

Mr. Matthew Deane was in particularly bad humor this raw December morning. Everything had gone wrong. Stocks had fallen when they ought to have risen—his clerk had tipped over the inkstand on his special and peculiar heap of papers—the fire obstinately refused to burn in the grate—in short, nothing went right, and Mr. Deane was correspondingly cross.

"Jenkins."

"Yes, sir."

"Go to the Widow Clarkson's and tell her I shall be there in half an hour, and except confidently—mind, Jenkins, confidently to receive the rent money. Or else I shall feel myself obliged to resort to extreme measures. You understand, Jenkins?"

"Certainly, sir."

"Then don't stand there starin' like an idiot," snarled Mr. Deane in a sudden burst of irritation, and Jenkins disappeared like a shot.

Just half an hour afterwards, Mr. Matthew Deane brushed the brown hair just sprinkled with gray, away from his square, yet not unkindly brow, and putting on his fur lined overcoat he walked forth into the chilly winter air, fully determined, figuratively, to annihilate the defaulting Widow Clarkson.

It was a dwarfish little red brick house which appeared originally to have aspired to two story hood lot, but cramped by circumstances, had settled down into a story and a half, but the windows shone like Brazilian pebbles, and the door steps were worn by much scouring. Neither of these circumstances, however, did Mr. Deane remark, as he pulled the glittering brass door knob, and strode into Mrs. Clarkson's neat parlor.

There was a small fire—very small, as if every lump of anthracite was hoarded in the stove, and at a table, with writing implements before her, sat a young lady whom Mr. Deane at once recognized at Mrs. Clarkson's neice, Miss Olive Mellen. She was not disagreeable to look upon, though you would never have thought of classing her among the beauties, with shining black hair, blue, long lashed eyes and a very pretty mouth, hiding teeth like rice kernels, so white were they.

Miss Mellen rose with a polite nod, which was grimly reciprocated by Mr. Deane.

"I have called to see your aunt, Miss Mellen!"

"I know it, sir, but as I am aware of her timid temperament, I sent her away. I prefer to deal with you myself."

Mr. Deane started—the cool audacity of this damsel in gray, with scarlet ribbons in her hair, rather astonished him.

"I suppose the money is ready?"

"No, sir, it is not."

"Then, Miss Olive,—pardon me, I must speak plainly—I shall send an officer here this afternoon to put a valuation on the furniture, and—"

"You will do nothing of the kind, sir."

Olive's cheek had reddened and her eyes flashed portentiously. Mr. Deane turned towards the door, but ere he knew what he was doing, Olive had walked quietly across the room, locked the door and taken out the key—then she resumed her seat.

"What does this mean?" ejaculated the astonished "prisoner of war."

"It means, sir, that you will now be obliged to reconsider the question," said Olive.

"Obliged?"

"Yes, you will hardly jump out of the window, and there is no other method of egress unless you choose to go up the chimney. Now, then, Mr. Deane, will you tell me if you—a Christian man in the nineteenth century—intend to sell a poor widow's furniture, because she is not able to pay her rent?"

"Listen, sir!"

Mr. Deane had opened his mouth to remonstrate, but Olive enforced her words with a very emphatic little stamp of the foot, and he was, as it were, stricken dumb.

"You are what the world calls a rich man, Mr. Deane. You own rows of houses, piles of bank stock, railroad shares, bonds and mortgages—who knows what more? My aunt has nothing—I support her by copying. Now, if this case be carried into a court, my poor, ailing aunt will be a sufferer—you will emerge unscathed and unprofited! You are not a bad man, Mr. Deane; you have a great many noble qualities, and I like you for them." She paused an instant, and looked intently and gravely at Mr. Deane. The color rose to her cheek—it was not disagreeable to be told by a pretty young girl that she liked him, no any terms, yet she had indulged in pretty plain speaking.

"I have heard," she went on, "of your doing kind actions when you were in the humor of it. You can do them, and you shall in this instance. You are cross this morning, you know you are! Hush, no excuse, you are selfish, and irritable and overbearing. If I were your mother, and you a little boy, I would certainly put you in a corner until you promised to be good."

Mr. Deane smiled, although he was getting angry. Olive went on with the utmost composure.

"But, as it is, I shall only keep you here a prisoner until you have behaved, and given me your word not to annoy my aunt again for rent, until she is able to pay you. Then and not till then, will you receive your money. Do you promise? yes or no?"

"I certainly shall agree to no such terms," said Mr. Deane, tartly.

"Very well, sir, I can wait."

Miss Mellen deposited the key in the pocket of her grey dress, and sat down to her copying. Had she been a man, Mr. Deane would have probably knocked her down—as it was, she wore an invisible armor of power in the very fact that she was a fragile, slight woman, and she knew it.

"Miss Olive," he said sternly, let us terminate this mummery. Unlock that door!"

"Mr. Deane, I will not."

"I shall shout and alarm the neighbors, then, or call a policeman."

"Very well, Mr. Deane, do so if you please."

She dipped her pen in the ink and began on a first page. Matthew sat down puzzled and discomfitted, and watched the long lashed eyes and faintly tinted cheek of his keeper. She was very pretty—what a pity she was so obstinate.

"Miss Olive?"

"Sir!"

"The clock has just struck twelve."

"I heard it."

"I should like to get out to get some lunch."

"I am sorry that luxury is out of your power."

"But I'm confounded hungry."

"Are you?"

"And I am not going to stand this sort of thing any longer!"

"No!"

How provokingly nonchalant she was. Mr. Deane eyed the pocket of the gray dress greedily, and walked up and down the room pettishly.

"I have an appointment at one!"

"Indeed? what a pity you will be unable to keep it."

He took another turn across the room,—looked up with a smile.

"Well, are you ready to promise?"

"Hang it yes, what else can I do?"

"You promise?"

"I do because I can't help myself."

Olive drew the key from her pocket with softened eyes.

"You have made me very happy, Mr. Deane. I dare say you think me unwomanly and unfeminine, but indeed you do not know to what extreme we are driven by poverty. Good morning, sir."

Mr. Deane sallied forth with a curious compilation of thoughts and emotions struggling through his brain, in which gray dresses, long lashed, blue eyes and scarlet ribbons played a prominent part.

"Did you get the money, sir?" asked the clerk, when he walked into the office.

"Mind your business, sir!" was the tart response.

"I pity her husband," he thought, as he turned the papers over his desk. "How she will henpeck him. By the way, I wonder who her husband will be?"

The next day he called at the widow Clarkson's to assure Miss Mellen that he had no idea of breaking his promise, and the next but one after that, he came to inform the young lady she need entertain no doubt of his integrity. And the next week he dropped in on them with no particular errand to serve as an excuse!

When shall we be married, Olive? Next month? Do not let us put it off later."

"I have no wish but yours, Matthew."

"Really, Miss Olive Mellen, to hear that meek tone, one would suppose you had never locked me up here, and tyrannized over me as a jailor."

Olive burst into a laugh.

"You dear old Matthew. I gave a warning beforehand that I mean to have my way in everything. Do you wish to recede from your bargain? It is not too late yet."

No, Matthew Deane didn't, he had a vague idea that it would be very pleasant to be henpecked by Olive!
